"The Whole World Is Watching" - You Should See this Play

I'm a Chicago theatre fan, and the 43rd Ward is home to the finest theatre in the City. So when I get to see a fantastic new play, by a young company, and it's playing for a short time in our backyard, and it's about Chicago, I just have to tell you about it.

The Dog and Pony Theatre Company is showing a powerful new play about the 1968 Democratic Convention, or more precisely, about the protesters outside the convention in Grant Park and Lincoln Park. I don't want to spoil the experience of the show, because it is experiential, but all I can say is - if you were there, it might evoke the feelings of inaugural Field of Dreams walk-a-thon event to raise awareness and funds for the Alcott field and playground renovations. Alcott is asking for the community to support its students by donating. To donate or for more information, click here.

power and fear you felt, and if you weren't there, it'll give you an immersion.

The play is showing at our wonderful Victory Gardens Biograph Theater, so hurrah to them for supporting this new show.

While the NATO Summit went off without a hitch, and we applaud the activities of both the protesters and our City's police, there was a time when this would not have been possible. See this play and feel what it was like. The show closes June 9, and runs Wednesdays - Saturday at 8 pm. (And tickets are only $25!). This one has a future.
