Power Outage Update 2

Dear Friends,

While power has been restored to some, a few high-rises along Lincoln Park West and residents in the Mid-North area remain without power. Com Ed must bring in five generators to provide power. Two are here and three more on their way. Restoring power will take until about midnight for the low-rise residential and likely until 2 am for the high-rises.

After last night's outage, Com Ed switched the power to another part of the power supply while it was attempting to locate a cable that failed. Tonight the alternative supply also failed. This is why they are bringing in generators.

I might suggest that you disconnect sensitive electronics to lower the risk of a power surge from a generator harming your computer or television. Email me at yourvoice@ward43.org if you have some info to share.
